On the Move: Promotions, New Hires & Advancements, Week of Jan. 3, 2016

John M. Parese, an attorney with New Haven-based Buckley & Wynne, has been named president of the New Haven County Bar Association, according to a release. Parese, 38, previously served as an Executive Committee

Officer and, earlier, was chairman of its Lawyer Referral Service. “Helping new lawyers acclimate is our duty and privilege,” Parese said in the release. “I want to ensure that every new lawyer in New Haven County has the same rights and opportunities that I had, and is made to feel as welcome and supported as I was fresh out of law school.” Parese received his Juris Doctorate in 2002 from Quinnipiac University School of Law and his Bachelor of Arts in 1999 from University of Connecticut, the release said. In addition to his state affiliations — Connecticut Bar Association, Connecticut Trial Lawyers Association — he is a member of the National Italian American Bar Association and has been recognized by National Trial Lawyers Top 40 Under 40, 2012; New England Outstanding Young Lawyers, 2012; and Connecticut Magazine’s Top Attorneys, 2013, the release said. He practices in the areas of personal injury litigation, product liability, medical and legal malpractice, and insurance litigation, and also acts as legal counsel for the Auto Body Association of Connecticut, the release said.
